

Walk to the river and neighborhood trail

Walk to the river (app 15 min): at our gate, turn left, follow the road. Walk up the hill, down again, pass an unfinished gate on your left, continue on the road (road may be blocked, you can walk past the barricade), keep on going straight (you may notice a quarry to your left). The road now turns into a path that leads down a slope to the river. Follow the little path parallel to the river upstream to come to our bathing spot (it's just above the little rapid).

To do the trek (app 7 km) follow the same route. At the bathing spot, cross the river and follow the steps up the banks. You will reach a little settlement (some cowsheds and greenhouses are the landmark). Follow the village road. At the primary school, keep walking straight. Then, watch out for sharp right branching off. Walk past the old quarry, up the slope, then down to the river. The road ends at a village house, follow the path to the river and cross where you see stairs on the other side. On the other side, take a right and follow the road. Shortly after the first tarred road branching off left, take a right onto the mud road. Walk past the temple and shortly you'll be back on the initial path.
